

DISCstyles Graphs for Ryan Roberts

Your Adapted Style indicates you tend to use the behavioral traits of the Dc style(s) in your selected Work focus. Your Natural Style indicates that you naturally tend to use the behavioral traits of the D style(s).

Your Adapted Style is your graph displayed on the left. It is your perception of the behavioral tendencies you think you should use in your selected focus (work, social or family). This graph may change when you change roles or situations. The graph on the right is your Natural Style and indicates the intensity of your instinctive behaviors and motivators. It is often a better indicator of the “real you” and your “knee jerk,” instinctive behaviors. This is how you act when you feel comfortable in your home environment and are not attempting to impress. It is also what shows up in stressful situations. This graph tends to be fairly consistent, even in different environments.

If you have scores under 10 or over 90, these are extended scores where the behavior becomes a need. If expressing that behavior isn't possible, you'll likely create situations where that behavioral need can be met.

If the bars are similar, it means that you tend to use your same natural behaviors in either environment. If your Adapted Style is different from your Natural Style, this may cause stress if over a long period of time. You are then using behaviors that are not as comfortable or natural for you.

The higher or lower each D, I, S, C point is on your graph, the greater or lesser your behavior impacts your results at work and with others around you. Once aware, you can adapt your style to be more effective. Can you change? Of course! You do it every day depending on your situations. However, permanent behavioral change comes only with awareness and practice.

Communication Tips for Others

The following suggestions can help others who interact with you understand and be aware of your communication preferences. To use this information effectively, share it with others and also discuss their preferences.

Check the two most important ideas when others communicate with you (dos & don'ts) and transfer them to the Summary of Your Style page.

When Communicating with Ryan, DO:

- Present your items in a logical way.
- Stay on track. Don't talk about extraneous issues or items.
- Do your homework and be prepared with goals, objectives, support materials, etc., but don't plan on using all of them. Have the material with you as support.
- Stick to business matters only.
- Be clear in your explanations.
- Ask "what"-oriented questions that close the issue or topic.
- When you disagree, take issue with the methods or procedures, not with the person.

When Communicating with Ryan, DON'T:

- Forget or lose things necessary for the meeting or project.
- Engage in rambling discussion, and waste Ryan's time.
- Make decisions for Ryan.
- Try to develop "too close" a relationship, especially too quickly.
- Let it reflect on Ryan personally when in disagreement.
- Leave loopholes or vague issues hanging in the air.
- Make guarantees and assurances when there is a risk in meeting them.

Your Motivators: Wants and Needs

Motivation is the enthusiasm or willingness to do something. Everybody is motivated; however, all people are motivated for their own reasons, not somebody else's. Simply, people are motivated by what they want.

Our behaviors are also driven by our needs. Each style has different needs. If one person is stressed, they may need quiet time alone; another may need social time around a lot of people. Each has different ways to meet their needs. The more fully our needs are met, the easier it is to perform at an optimal level.

Choose the two most important wants and the two most important needs and transfer them to the Summary of Your Style page.

You Tend to Be Motivated By:

- A variety of experiences and new challenges.
- A change-oriented work culture.
- Having authority equal to your responsibility.
- Opportunities to express your ideas and opinions.
- Having control over your own destiny and career path.
- Support for your ideas and initiatives.
- Opportunities for advancement and career expansion.

People With Patterns Like You Tend to Need:

- To engage in a proactive confrontation when someone disagrees with your methods or ideas. This is preferable to sowing seeds of discontent behind one's back.
- Environments with challenging assignments.
- An understanding of your boundaries to keep from overstepping your authority.
- To negotiate commitments on a face-to-face basis. This helps maintain clarity and mutual responsibility.
- Straight-forward, direct communication.
- To curb intensity in less urgent situations.
- To delegate routine or detailed tasks after you have mastered them in order to increase efficiency.

What You Bring to the Organization
